TASTING NOTES

Dark picota cherry with an attractive nose in which the aromas of ripe fruit appear, the roasted and spicy notes of a long aging in wood (pepper and nutmeg) and the mineral memories of the slate soils in which the vineyard is born. On the palate it is tasty and powerful, fruity and elegant, meaty and complex, it is superbly drunk although it shows great aging potential.

VINEYARDS

Very old vines of Garnacha are planted on the hillsides at about 3,000 feet above sea level, with a very low level of rains and without irrigation to obtain very low yields and a limited harvest.
